

We are read everywhere

In 2020 to date, more than 14,000 readers from more than 110 countries have read articles in the Rhode Island Medical Journal (RIMJ) or researched its archives. More than 7,500 others have accessed full-text pdfs via the PubMed Linkout feature.

Top 10 countries in September 2020:

- | | |
|--------------|-------------------------|
| 1. US | 6. United Arab Emirates |
| 2. Australia | 7. Italy |
| 3. Canada | 8. Brazil |
| 4. UK | 9. France |
| 5. India | 10. Japan |

MARIN COUNTY, CALIFORNIA

[Left] Orthopedic surgeon Andrew Goldstein, MD, takes a break from playing the electronic saxophone outdoors with a physician friend socially distanced, to view the September Sports Medicine themed issue of the Rhode Island Medical Journal. Dr. Goldstein, shown here in Marin County, CA, is an East Coast native who graduated from the New Jersey Medical School, did an internship at Albert Einstein–Montefiore Medical Center and returned to New Jersey for his residency and orthopedic fellowship.

[Above] RIMJ Managing editor Mary Korr, accesses RIMJ articles on PubMed while socially distancing at the fitness center reopening.

Wherever you happen to be social distancing, visit the Journal on your mobile device, and send us a photo: mkorr@rimed.org.